

artnet[®]

Must-See Art Guide: Buenos Aires

This week's guide features Tomás Saraceno, Ines Echenique, Hugo Aveta, and more.

Tatiana Berg, May 25, 2017

Buenos Aires recently made it to the number four spot on our list of best cities for American artists wishing to relocate after Trump's election, and for good reason: host to over 80 galleries, South America's second-largest collector audience, and the annual ArteBA fair, there's much for artists and art lovers to see and do while in the Argentinian capital. Start with the galleries, and visit Art Consultant Mosto & Rojas Arte for the cheerful acrylic paintings of local artist Ines Echenique, on view through June 17. Then be sure to head over to Ruth Benzacar for the inventive sculpture and installations of Carlos Huffmann, or Henrique Faria gallery for the powerful political art of Elda Cerrato. The city's museum circuit is nothing to sneeze at, either, what with the current Tomás Saraceno exhibition at MAMBA or the touching work of Hugo Aveta in the show "The Intimate Awareness of Objects," up at the Centro Cultural Haroldo Conti until the end of July. Vamanos.

Exhibition: "Elda Cerrato: Algunos segmentos"

When: May 17–July 5, 2017

Where: Henrique Faria | Buenos Aires, Libertad 1628, Buenos Aires, Argentina

Elda Cerrato, Serie del Ser Beta no aislado. Contacto con Tierra I (1972). Courtesy of Henrique Faria | Buenos Aires.